COURT RULES

Justifiable Homicide

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — A coroner's jury ruled today that the death of Lana Turner's lover, at the hands of her 14-year-old daughter, Cheryl, was "justifiable homicide,"

Neither the star, nor her daughter, Cheryl, were in the courtroom to hear the verdict, which is tantamount to clearing the slim, shy girl of responsibility in the slaying.

However, the District-Attorney's Office said after the verdict that "at this time" it planned to go ahead with the juvenile hearing, the equivalent of a trial, in Santa Monica

The coroner's jury of 10 men and two women received the case at 11.45 a.m., but only after the courtroom was thrown into a turnfoll when a swarthy, dark-haired man, later identified as Stephen Trusso, shouted from the audi-ence a demand "to be heard."

"You seum have told a pack of lies here," he shouted. "I was a friend of Johnny's. Cheryl was in love with him. She was in love with him. She was jealous of her mother." He then stormed from the courtroom, a horde of re-porters trailing as he left the building.

He Was Trying To Strangle Me

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Lana Turner, almost collapsing at times, today told a coroner's inquest that Johnny Stompanato had tried to strangle her only seconds before her teen-age daughter rammed a knife into his abdomen.

The Big Market

HE SAYS HIMSELF, MR. A Walter Gordon's predictions about Canada's economic future may well turn out wrong. It would be a miracle, indeed, if they turned out

It is easy enough for an economist with a slide-rule to take certain figures of population, economic growth, trade and so forth, and project them on a chart. But projection of known facts is not enough. There is always the unknown.

Mr. Gordon and his royal commission did their job well but he is the first to emphasize the un-known factors. For example, he says, a commission studying our situation 50 years ago could not have foreseen the revolution of electricity. Twenty-five years ago it would not have dreamed of atomic power. What new scientific discovery lies ahead to shatter all the economists' charts and swing the graphs in dizzy new curves?

One fact noted by the Gordon Commission in its final report is not likely to be altered by scientific discovery, at least in our time. It is that Canada must continue to do a massive business with the United States.

The Gordon report predicts that Canadian-American trade will vastly increase as both nations grow in population and wealth.

Mr. Diefenbaker says he will try to divert 15 per cent of our imports from the American to the British and Commonwealth markets.

The newspapermen of Ottawa ask Mr. Gordon how he reconciles his view with that of the Prime Minister but there need be no conflict here. We could increase our trade with the Commonwealth and with the United States simultaneously and then the percentage of our American imports, in relation to our total inflow of goods could fall even though the American imports themselves increased.

On the other hand, by attempting to give excessive tariff protection to uneconomic-Canadian industries, we could reduce our total trade and, as we have done before, could impoverish ourselves a nation to enrich certain pressure groups.

It is too early yet to say exactly what the present Government in-tends to do about these things or how Mr. Diefenbaker proposes to effect the diversion of our trade. He has been given the people's mandate and he must now be given some months to mature his policies. There is a definite time limit, however, on these deliberations since the Commonwealth trade conference will meet, on Mr. Diefenbaker's invitation, early next autumn. By then Canadian position must crystallized.

Whatever that position may be however Canadian tariffs may be altered, wisely or unwisely, the fact stressed by the Gordon Commission will remain because it is a fundamental fact inherent in history economics and geography-as far ahead as any man can see, the American market must be the biggest and most lucrative in the world and we live beside it.

There, as the Gordon Commission says, we'shall continue to sell a large quantity of our goods, whatever percentage they may be of our total sales. And there, too, because the supply is convenient, relatively cheap and of the sort our economy requires, we shall buy in large

For that market and source of supply there is, at present anyway, no possible substitute in any part of the world, especially when our relatively high costs of production make it increasingly difficult for us to ompete in most overseas countries where costs and prices are lower than ours,

To deny the simple finding of the Gordon Commission in this respect is simply to fly in the face of inexorable economic facts and of geography. To reconcile Canadian policy those facts will be the continuing task of any Canadian government. To secure a fairer deal in the to again, long after the American market must be the con- reflected objects have tinuing objective of any Canadian government. To assure us such a deal should be, and at present is, the objective of the American gov-

But the American government, like ours, is constantly under the pressure of local interests that disregard the national interest.

of the line, may involve the two nations of North America in a period of bitter wrangle, tariff retallation and mutual impoverish.

There are similarities ment, as they have done several times in the past. The basic facts of economics and geography will remain nevertheless and in due time sanity will return to the free world's trade. Or if it doesn't, the Russians will not need to threaten the free world with rockets.

Time for Cool Heads

IT IS NATURAL THAT TEACHers of British Columbia should map strategy at their annual Easter holiday-convention to meet possible developments in their dispute with trustees. The teachers have called for genuine negotiation with school boards in 25 districts on salary matters.

Help for the Widow

EARLY LAST YEAR THE FED-eral Government was consider-ing amendment of the succession duties act to assist widows.

Under terms of the law written in 1941, estates up to $50,000 passing to widows on the death of their husbands are exempt from such charges. On amounts above $50,000 the state imposes its levy. The Government taxes $2,700 from estates of $60,000, for instance.

If the succession duties act was fair 17 years ago, it is not fair today. Inflation has eroded the value of the dollar and seriously reduced the income available from such estates.

A widow in modest circumstances may count among her assets the family home and the family car. Together those items may add up to $25,000. Under such conditions only $25,000 more would be left exempt from duties. And the earnings from the latter would be meagre in-by the inflation of the later war and post-war years led the Government to consider the issue as recently as early last year. Since that time two elections and the political activity attending them have intervened and pushed aside consideration of this important matter.

But it should be brought forward for action again. It is to be hoped that Mr. Diefenbaker, who must be fully informed on the subject, will see that it is when the next budget is presented. This is not a question involving partisan politics. It is merely a matter of common justice to widows with growing families. They deserve fair treatment. Under the depressed buying power of the dollar today, they are not getting it from obsolete legislation passed nearly two decades

There are similarities to be seenthe big problems of living seem to have been the same then as now. And there are differences—but mostly in the surface qualities. Reading between the lines provides still a third view of events.

Looking at old newspapers and maga zines - I mean, of course, much older ones than you find in waiting rooms-should be a regular feature of our lives. As the sideshow barkers used to say it's interesting, thrilling and educational!

In this particular copy of the Reader's Digest, for instance — and the magazine has certainly come along since those days-there was quite a variety of mirror

This was 1922, remember. The world was just staggering out of the torture chamber of the Great War. Peace was only four years old—the same length of time that the war had lasted. The socalled "roaring twenties" era was just

Durable Target

There is, for example, a typical, Digest-type of article entitled "What Kind of a Husband Are You?" condensed from the Pictorial Review. Discussing a numthe Pictorial Review. Discussing a number of husbandly shortcomings, such as the still-routine complaints that he won't be tidy around the house and objects to being told about it all the time, and his tardiness for meals and reluctance to keep himself attractive-looking, the article gets down to the big protest of women, then as now, the monatony of women, then as now: the m otony of the housewife's life.

"Think of the freedom of the woman in the home!" exclaims the writer, with

In the home!" exclaims the writer, with scornful sarcasm.

And we read of the routine of the day: Seeing husband and children off in the morning, "holding conferences with the maid"(!) and the grocer's clerk, deciding on menus, "making a thrilling decision to let the sitting room curtains go another week without laundering," going to market and answering the incessant questions of junior — "What makes the man walk THAT way?" What makes horses gallop THAT way?"—doing makes horses gallop THAT way?"—doing sweeping and dusting, mending, baking, eating with the children and so on.

Well, it's an impressive ast, and it's duplicated in a good many newspaper and magazine articles right to this day. The basic complaint remains. But the sidelights are interesting.

You don't see many references to household maids nowadays—still less to the drudgery of holding conferences with them. And the little boy who wants to know what makes the horses gallop THAT way - how many mothers today have to answer that one? More likely the question these days is, what IS a

It appears that the problems of the Rousewife of 36 years ago have changed but little if at all. Confronted with a vision of the home of today, the wife of 1322 no doubt would have hailed it haven't got economic foresight and are

The new device raises "an interesting prospect" says the article. The writer was right. And it has recorded some interesting and unforeseen times, too— More Tolerance second world war and the troubled conferences trying to avert a third, the dripping seconds of count-downs for atomic blasts or space rocket take-offs, the hours for television programs, the departure and arrival times of worldgirdling air lines.

Such things the electric clock inventor little expected in 1922. How much longer will his clock measure time for us in a world under the threat of nuclear extinction? Thirty-six years have wrought so little change in some ways. One writer in this issue was moved to cry: "But oh, these cheap magazines! Everywhere is the insipid girl's face on the cover, with the whole reading public apparently bowing down before the pretty, idle, inane, slouching and dilettante girl."

What would that writer-a woman of course—have thought of our current newsstand displays? Her problem is still with us, although it must be admitted that the focus of attention has slipped from the face.

Baseless Fear

One writer, still widely read today, was Albert Edward Wiggam. He expressed anxiety that the large influx of would change the picture of American womanhood. The newcomers he described: "broad-hipped, short, stout-legged with big feet, broad-backed, flat-chested with necks like prizefighters : . . and faces as devoid of beauty as a pumpkin" were having nearly three times as many babies as "the beautiful women of old Ameri can stocks," he cried.

But his fears seem not to have been borne out. Medical statistics, show that American men and worken screase their average height a little tach decade, and have been doing so for the past hundred

The leaders of organized labor give me a "pain in the neck."

Mr. Victor Midgley, vice-president of the B.C. Federation of Labor has forecast the return of the depression con-

"I believe this time next year there will be over a million unemployed in Canada because the Conservatives

Easter Monday Miracle

My husband and I chose this acre of land five miles from town to build on because we thought we'd be escaping some of the noise and traffic of the city, and also that it would be a better place to bring up children.

Now we are not so sure. We have watched cars and trucks speeding by here on Wilkinson, have shuddered as cars with tires squealing have ripped around the corner to Lindsay. We have wit-nessed several near-accidents nearby, in fact just on Easter Sunday we were parked in our driveway waiting for the traffic to clear so we could drive out, when a car travelling south on Wilkinson suddenly speeded up and whizzed around the corner to Lindsay just missing a car coming in the opposite direction on Wilkinson

I think the majority of drivers are careful but the few reckless types (not all young fellows) spoil the roads for others. I dread the time when I will have to send my daughter to school from

In fact after the rending crash which took place practically on our front door step, ending the serenity of Easter Mon-day, and leaving me shaken, (I am expecting a baby in the summer) our front yard a shambles, broken fence and flower beds, toppled Maple tree and small evergreens which my husband had planted uprooted, I am not so sure we ill want to stay here.

We are thankful that no one was in jured but it surely was a miracle

Just a short while before the car-carcened into our fence and tree, our one and a half-year-old baby daughter Lorilee had played on the lawn nearby, and I had snapped her picture with the white fence and the flowers as a back-ground. I am thankful that my husband Peter had been working in the back and not in the small strawberry patch close to the wrecked fence where he had worked several days ago.

Property can be replaced but lost lives never can be. (MRS.) ALICE KIMOFF.

Historic Interest

In Astoria, Oregon, the fine old Flavel home has been turned into an historical museum of great interest; and yet our Dunsmuir Castle would be a superior museum in many ways, because of its superior site and appearance.

Recently the press mentioned a large sum set aside for an addition to Craigdarroch for school board offices. Before this addition is built, thus forever ruining Craigdarroch as a museum, could no suitable site be found for the school board? A stone castle is not required, just a plain brick building.

The empty Yates Street firehall, with alterations, and a suitable addition, could be made a suitable and modern school board office.
Craigdarroch as a museum, then could be developed into a wonderful tourist attraction to Victoria. I should be pleased to join the many people who would make contributions to this museum of Old Victoria.

The Case for Island Milk

MANY people seem to be under the impression that the Vancouver Island Dairymen are trying to hold out for a higher price for their milk than the distributors would have to pay for Vancouver milk. This is not so. They are asking to keep the same price, i.e., the Vancouver price plus the amount it costs. se plus the to bring mainland milk to the Island.

Their reason for doing so is quite simply that since they have to pay the extra freight for everything they buy, without the so-called "freight differential" they could not long remain in busi-

Much has also been said about cheap er milk production in the Fraser Valley and it has been suggested that milk production on Vancouver Island is economically unsound and could well be discontinued. Certainly such is the present intention of the present B.C. Social Credit Government, in whose interest it is to placate the more highly populated Lower Mainland.

There is as much truth in this assertion as there would be in saying that it would be better to de-populate the Island altogether, because goods and services are often more expensive here than they are in highly-populated areas, closer to the sources of supply,

The Socreds seem not to have considered the real economic loss to this Island if they succeed in exterminating the dairymen. For while the dairy farincome has recently been so low as to be almost non-existent their gross income is comparatively large— a quarter of a million dollars monthly would be a conservative estimate—and it is all spent locally. The loss of it would be felt severely by local merchants.

Milk production is cheaper on the average in the Fraser Valley than it is on Vancouver Island, but much of the milk so produced is not suitable for, and has never been intended for, the fluid market. (By the term "fluid market" is meant milk or cream which is to be sold raw or pasteurized in bottles or other Various methods are used in the production of milk for the manufactured market, but providing the minimum reg-ulations are compiled with, no special care is necessary.

Our kids were going to Bill Muncy's Margaret Jenkins School. The boss of our house and I thought Bill and the school were doing a pretty good job for the youngsters. We figured we owned the outfit something more than the taxes we paid for school purposes.

So I decided to enlist in the PTA. It was a gesture attended by great con-descension on my part. As far as I was concerned. PTAs were an excuse for "mother's night out." They held home-cooking sales, Stott teas and gossip sessions and brought in pathetically small revenue

With the conceit of ignorance I offered myself for any small duties I could perform. I wasn't happy at the prospect, but figured that if this was the way parents helped out, then I'd conform.

OUT OF MY CLASS

It took one meeting to knock the conceit out of me. I met half a dozen men who were members and whom I knew from my work on the newspaper. Three of them held PhDs, a couple were medical doctors and the other was a college professor. I just didn't have any grounds for condescension in that Still, I made my form inquiries to what the PTA was trying to do in larger issues, what claims it had to value other than raising a few bucks to buy sports equip-ment and other little extras for the students. One of my friends pointed out that the PTA provided a good grassroots assessment of the educational process. The parents' in-terest ran far deeper than providing new sweaters for the football team. It extended to an analysis of courses and what the school to an analysis of courses and what the school was attempting to give its students educationally to meet the needs of the times.

I listened and then I asked: "But what has the PTA done educationally?"

One of the older executive members brightened at the question, "Why," she said, "we got the home economics chair established at the University of British Columbia."

That seemed a sort of clincher, though it left me wondering.

Now I'm chuckling. This week Dr. Malcolm McGregor, UBC classics professor told the assembled delegates of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation that home economics has "no place" on the high school program.

At least the paper reported him to that effect. The good doctor, it seems, has never taken a course in home economics. If he had, he'd never have dumped the fat into the skillet while the skillet was red hot. With nice generality he has dismissed the one achievement PTAs used to claim as a basic argument for their existence and influence in education

What Dr. McGregor said has been said many times before. Home ec. comes in for quite a beating from a lot of the traditionalists and from a large number of other people who don't claim to be traditionalists and who make no pretension to academic knowledge

I'm not prepared to argue that home ec. is an essential subject. I don't know enough about it. I have the disturbing feeling, though, that a lot of parents couldn't help their daughters much in determining nutritional values, balanced meals, or even how to

But I've noticed very little criticism of industrial arts courses for boys—which I take to be the masculine counterpart of home ec. Usually industrial arts are rated "good things" for youngsters. They're counted valuable factors in developing manual skills and practical knowledge.

Why home ec. shouldn't do the same for girls is beyond my understanding. And while I'm not too keen on progress merely for the sake of progress, I wonder if girls today should perpetuate the mistakes some of their mothers make in the kitchen and at the sewing machine.

No doubt Dr. McGregor had excellent arguments to support his case. No doubt the newspapers had inadequate space to handle

As I had previously understood the con tention, you studied Latin so you could speak better English. Five years of it hasn't seemed to improve my English perceptibly. But it did teach me certain rules of grammar which now enable me to know when I'm murdering my own tongue. Without Latin my offence would not have been murder. It would have been manslaughter.

I'm sure the adviser would have benefited from a short chat with Dr. McGregor. The doctor might even have convinced the adviser that a good grounding in classics makes a person a competent judge of home ec. and what chairs the PTA should press for at

Spotlight on Canada

NEW YORK—Canada has been given prominent front-page play in New York newspapers. First there was the Canadian election which received far more attention than previous elections, with the emphasis en Canadian nationalism. Then there was the Ripple Rock blast which also got store-and-picture coverage.

But at the United Nations, interest was focussed on bigger blasts—American nuclear tests coming up and Russian propaganda blasts which have already arrived. The Russians have announced unilateral suspension of nuclear tests and there's well-informed speculation that they may soon announce sus-penion of nuclear production.

The Bussian move has touched off a chain reaction of violent argument in the United States. The New York Times on Sunday had half a dozen stories covering two full pages in its news sections and more stories in the magazine section. At the United Nations, many Canadians and other friends of the United States are saying that the Russians have now done the sort of thing they long pleaded for dramatic action, unilateral if necessary, which would have demonstrated Western good faith. Instead there was legalistic wrangling interspersed with selfrighteous platitudes

MERE PROPAGANDA

Time and again, Washington has missed Russian moves as "mere propaganda."
To many people at the UN, who are unable to watch day by day reactions of non-Westein representatives, this "mere propaganda" reaction has sounded as unrealistic as if the president of a cigaret company were to dismiss his rival's sales campaign as "mere advertising." Americans perfected modern advertising techniques and they invented "P.R." but they have been reluctant to use these techniques in international affairs as the New York Times commented:

"The West, led by the U.S., has relied on the orthodox methods of diplomacy. The Russians have relied heavily on the weapon of propaganda; their goal has been leverage against the West through the support of world opinion for their moves on the international scene."

For President Eisenhower to dismiss the Russian nuclear tests suspension "gimmick" sounds rather like the Liberals dismissing Mr. Diefenbaker's "mere oratory." Both the Russians and Mr. Diefenbaker appeal with great effect to people's emotions. Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Dulles attempted to counter these appeals by argument, and both have so far failed.

U.S. editorial pages show that Americans are puzzled and often resentful that "mere propaganda" should prevail over what they regard as reasoned argument. An Indian correspondent at the UN, however, had an astute remark the other day on this subject:

"American advertisers long ago abandoned They use motivation research and other mystic rites to induce people to use money they don't have to buy things they don't need. Americans shouldn't be surprised when Russians use the same approach." He might have added that Americans at home sell cars with fins but abroad they try to sell policies with barnacles.

FEARS EXPRESSED

But a basic principle of the advertising business is that good advertising won't sell a had product. Fears have been expressed that the United States, aware of its propaganda defeats, may overhaul its inform program without overhauling the policies which lie behind it, as Harrison Salisbury said in the New York Times:

"Today Moscow challenges us effectively in propaganda, foreign relations and technology. If tomorrow the threat spreads to economics, the peril will be grave indeed. The time is clearly ripe, the administration's critics say, not for a superficial re-examina-tion of propaganda devices and gadgets but for a reappraisal of the policy which underlies propaganda and from which propaganda

"It's being pointed out here that indecision "It's being pointed out nere that indecision on policy has already robbed the West of the chance to accept the Russian offer, made last fall, to suspend nuclear tests. The Russians at that time offered to permit United Nations inspectors to be stationed in Russia to check compliance. The West, led by the United States, counter-proposed a more complex package deal and the disarmament remained deadlocked. Now the Russians have proceeded unilaterally and scored a public opinion triumph."

World Newsprint Well Above Needs

TORONTO (CP) — World newsprint capacity is estimated to be 10 to 15 per cent above present world needs, D. W. een Ambridge, president of Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., said as the company's annual meeting.

"Likewise the capacity for pulp making in the world is considerably in excess of what is required at present, but it is impossible to believe that the use of pulp in the thousands of products of which it now forms a part will suddenly cease to grow in view of the very great increase in population and improvement in standards of living."

Canadians, however, must not take it for granted that the pulp and paper industry is and always will be prosperous and profitable.

New Paper Unit In Production

CAMPBELL RIVER — British Columbia's newest paper machine has commenced commercial production.

Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited announced today that the No. 2 machine at the pulp and paper mill of its Elk Falls division turned out its first rolls of kraft paper on Wednesday. This production is for sale on the Canadian market.

Geared initially for a top speed of 2,000 feet per minute, it is potentially the fastest combination machine of its size in the western hemisphere

It produces a sheet 245 inches wide and is balanced for a potential speed of 2,500 feet per ninute.

The combination feature of the machine means increased diversification in the operation of the mill. Kraft paper will be produced for the Canadian market, and, when required, newsprint can be made to augment production from the mill's

No. 1 machine.

The 284-inch No. I machine at Elk Falls last year established a world's record for a single day's newsprint output with 353.5 tons and a weekly tonnage record of 2,352.8 tons. Start-up of the No. 2 machine marks completion of the 2½.

year, $29,000,000 expansion program at Elk Falls. In 1956 a kraft pulp mill was completed Last year kraft production was increased to 500 tons daily, a bleach plant and additional groundwood facilities were added, and a modern, small-log with a daily capacity of 100,000 board feet of lumber was put into production.

Football Pools---Wonderland of Wealth

LONDON (UP) - When a man labors in a coal mine 44 years and then wins half a million dollars on a 35-cent bet, the thing he spreads nd is hope, brother, hope

Hope that has got 25 mil-lion small-time gamblers on the football pools of 15 European countries in its grip. Hope that is all the more infectious because the 58-year-old miner is a long way from

It changed life overnight for the scrawny old miner and his family. And the good fortune even stretched across the Atlantic when the Rileys said they would set aside $56,000 from the bonanza to help their 13-year-old American grandson, Tommy, crippled with polio in Canton, Ohio.

Before the wonderland of wealth opened up for the Rileys, the same magic wand waved over the lives of 29year-old Wally Brockwell, London cellarman and his wife and four children. In mid-February, the Brockwells won $576,800 on a similar tiny

OUTDOOR REPORT Doug Peden

It's a cinch the guy who first remarked, "a wise man quits when he's ahead," wasn't a fisherman.

Did you ever meet an angler, just returned from catching boatload of fish or a tackle-busting whopper, who wasn't itch-ing to get back out on the water, convinced he needed only a smidgeon of luck to do it all

But if anyone ever had a temptation to quit when ahead, it should have been CPO Dick James.

Heading the Solarium Salmon Derby committee for the Victoria-Szanich Inlet Anglers' Association last year, Dick hauled in the biggest derby purse on record—a whopping $11,454.94.

Piloting the Solarium Derby is a worrisome, time-consum-ing task and few men would ing task and few men would be willing to tackle it more than once. With a record chalked up on the wall, it seemed an ideal time to step down and let some shoot at the record.

But James is back again, rolling up his sleeves for another term. Working with Ray Ritchie, who has had a hand in all the fish-fests aiding the Queen Alexandra Solarium, and an eager derby crew, he isn't

The derby has been the Anglers' way of helping handicapped children, and its record is evidence of the wholesupport it has received from the fishing public. With additional money needed to equip the new quarters, support of the 1958 event is perhaps more important than ever. But not only are the patients at the Solarium certain winners. One ticket purchaser will be driving a new car and others will be packing home a flock of fishing prizes after the event at Saanich Inlet July 20.

James is just about ready to dig in his oars and get the new derby campaign under way. He could still use additional ticket sellers and anyone wishing to help distribute tickets is invited to call him at 2-2676.

Don't forget the derby date. And get your derby tickets early, they cost only $1 each.

James, who won't be getting much more time for fishing until after July 20, was testing out his new boat and trying to show his son how to catch salmon at the Inlet last Sunday.

He did manage to hook a couple of small springs but proved more adept at snagging dogfish, hauling in eight of the unwanted squirmers, while the youngster was picking up only

SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)-Your mind is filled with so many ideas and plans of a financial nature that you could easily fail to take advantage of excellent opportunity to get aid with your immediate work from a true friend. Read this and profit.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) - A clever and dyn mic partner could easily get you into trouble with someone in authority if you are not on your toes. Do not associate with selfish individuals, or you could become the goat, too. Pay your bills,

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)-Your regular jo become so complicated that it is necessary to get away somewhere and view it objectively. Do so today. Go to some quiet environment, if it means driving many miles or playing golf, fishing, etc. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)-Monetary natters could be quite precarious, and it is wise to steer clear of expensive delights that have little real worth. Put affairs in better order and commit yourself to only the simplest and best expedients.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—It is difficult to know whether to stick with family ties or with outsiders today. But take care not to get in the centre of both, and still have a fine day. Give attention to repairs at home or place of business.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—This is not the right day to follow the advice of fellow workers with regard to own betterment. Say quietly that you have much of importance to take care of, then go off on a shopping, visiting excursion. Drive with care.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Unable to come to a decision regarding whether to attend to betterment of property matters, or having a good time, it is best to combine the two and pleasantly. Then tonight you can release the statement of the second content of the sec relax and entertain at home. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)-Desirous of effecting many worthwhile changes at residence, it is wisest you get the full consent of important ties first, and avoid later sorrow. Also, be sure your health is at its peak. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)-All that fussing and fuming over the unavoidable will get you nowhere. Analyze what should be done, how best to get greater abundance and pestige in the outside world, and you are on the right track. Be active, wisely. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)-That situation which has you somewhat stumped can best be amelior-ated by the assistance of a good friend. Don't depend entirely on your own resources, but take advantage of the kind help offered and be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)-Here is a day when it is imperative you look into all pertinent and important matters by yourself without dragging anyone else into anything that is strictly private. Hence you arrive at greater independence and worth.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)-A splendid day in which to add to your fund of knowledge, read your newspaper and become better informed, be prepared for the future. That feeling of martyrdom should be dispelled for it is bad.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SATURDAY The fine child born Saturday is the type who has sociability and generosity to a fault, yet underlying this is a clever understanding of how to from others and make his or her life far easier thereby So it is your duty to give a good grounding in the higher spiritual and moral, ethical attainments for the best results in this interesting horoscope, SUNDAY, APRIL 13, 1958 ARIES (March 21 to April 19)-Analyze what you found to be the most workable and ideal in the past and combine it with the better precepts of the present. Then go to church and put into practice the new under-standing you have reached.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)-This is the right time to put aside your own opinionated ideas that have proved not so successful and listen to the wise advice of others. Co-operation will take you very far. P.M.

good for taking important steps. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) - Going to the church. or religious school which prompts you will take away much of that frustration you have had and make the future more rosy. Be certain to express gratitude for the kindness of others, Grow.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)-You get a sort of brainstorm today with regard to the psychology to use toward others that will bring infinitely finer results in the future. This is done through first going into the so-called silence and listening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Start early in the morning getting in touch with those who come to mind, and you find they are delighted that you have taken the time to call on them. A day for real happiness, sports, dancing, romence.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—While you are at church today, think of your family and business associates kindly and then spend the better part of the day oming to better understanding with everyone. Let the spirit of love permeate everywhere, LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)-If attuned properly, ay you arise feeling wonderfully happy. Make others so by showing admiration, gratitude. Be actively engaged having a fine social time with kith and kin, Be actively

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Let family life rule your mind and thoughts this fine day. After you attend church of own choice, begin to live the ideals you expound so freely and gain peace of mind and prestige such as you have never known before. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)-Mentally you are wonderfully awake this day, and many fine ideas occur to you. Study those matters that are important and then get in touch with vital persons. Be persuasive and put your ideas across beautifully. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)-The jumbled situations now disturbing you can be best adjusted by applying the prieciples of merit under which you were brought up, with a little modernization. You may have been too old-fashioned. Spruce up! AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)-Here is a free day when whatever your heart desires can be gained, but be certain to act on the highest ethical and moral planes. Much of value can be yours now if you but make decisions and then follow through. PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)-A perfect day for some quiet, contemplating, or discussion with most in-fluential person you know, so that your present diffi-culties can best be straightened out. Do all that has to be done in privacy and be content.

The coroner's jury of 10 men and two women received the case at 11.45 a.m., but only after the courfroom was thrown into a turmoil when a swarthy, dark-haired man, later identified as Stephen Trusso, shouled from the audi-ence a demand "to be heard."

Inquest Finds Pep Pills Fatal To San Francisco Housewife

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)-A coroner's jury has ruled that a pep-up drug, taken in amounts recommended by its manufacturer, killed a San Francisco housewife.

The ruling came after Dr. John Henderson, who examined the woman at Stanford Hospital where she died, testified he had been told by a manufacturer's employee that some 100 patients in the United States and Mexico had jaundice after using the drug and that 20 had died. Dr. Henderson said he got his information from Dr.

Robert Dixon, in charge of the manufacturer's medical investigation staff. Both the seven-man jury and coroner Henry W. Turkel, in their finding Thursday, blamed the death of Mrs. Frances Simpson, 55, on "a dosage of 150 milligrams of Marsilid per day." Turkel said

Our kids were going to Bill Muncy's Margafet Jenkins School. The boss of our ouse and I thought Bill and the school were oing a pretty good job for the youngsters. We figured we owned the outfit something more than the taxes we paid for school purposes. So I decided to enlist in the PTA. It was a gesture attended by great con-descension on my part. As far as I was concerned. PTAs were an excuse for "mother's night out." They held home-cooking sales, teas and gossip sessions nd brought in pathetically small revenue to help the school With the conceit of ignorance I offered nyself for any small duties I could perform. I wasn't happy at the prospect, but figured that if this was the way parents helped out, then I'd conform.

OUT OF MY GLASS

Stott

It took one meeting to knock the conceit ut of me. I met half a dozen men who were embers and whom I knew from my work the newspaper. Three of them held hDs, a couple were medical doctors and the other was a college professor. I just didn't have any grounds for condescension in that Still, I made my form inquiries to see what the PTA was trying to do in larger issues, what claims it had to value other than raising a few bucks to buy sports equipnent and other little extras for the students.

One of my friends pointed out that the PTA provided a good grassroots assessment of the educational process. The parents' in-terest ran far deeper than providing new sweaters for the football team. It extended to an analysis of courses and what the school as attempting to give its students educationally to meet the needs of the times.

I listened and then I asked: "But what has the PTA done educationally?" One of the older executive members brightened at the question, "Why," she said,

"we got the home economics chair estab-lished at the University of British Columbia." That seemed a sort of clincher, though it left me wondering.

Now I'm chuckling. This week Dr. Malcolm McGregor, UBC classics professor, told the assembled delegates of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation that home economics has "no place" on the high school program. At least the paper reported him to that effect. The good doctor, it seems, has never taken a course in home economics. If he prominent front-page play in New York newspapers. First there was the Canadian election which received far more attention than previous elections, with the emphasis on Canadian nationalism. Then there was half a dozen stories covering two full pages in its news sections and more stories in the magazine section. At the United Nations, many Canadians and other friends of the United States are saying that the Russians have now done the sort of thing they long pleaded for-dramatic action, unilateral if necessary, which would have demonstrated Western good faith. Instead there was legalistic wrangling interspersed with self-righteous platitudes.

Time and again, Washington has dis missed Russian moves as "mere propaganda." To many people at the UN, who are unable to watch day-by-day reactions of non-Western representatives, this "mere propaganda" reaction has sounded as unrealistic as if the president of a cigaret company were to dis-miss his rival's sales campaign as "mere advertising." Americans perfected modern advertising techniques and they invented

"P.R." but they have been rejuctant to use these techniques in international affairs as

What Dr. McGregor said has been said many times before. Home ec. comes in for quite a beating from a lot of the traditionalists and from a large number of other people who don't claim to be traditionalists and who make no pretension to academic

I'm not prepared to argue that home ec. is an essential subject. I don't know enough ut it. I have the disturbing feeling, though, that a lot of parents couldn't help their daughters much in determining nutritional values, balanced meals, or even how to cook or sew.

Why home ec. shouldn't do the same for girls is beyond my understanding. And while I'm not too keen on progress merely for the sake of progress, I wonder if girls today should perpetuate the mistakes some of their mothers make in the kitchen and at the sewing machine.

No doubt Dr. McGregor had excellent arguments to support his case. No doubt the newspapers had inadequate space to handle

But reading the condensed account, I couldn't help thinking of a meeting I attended as a parent when high school options were being explained.

Someone in the audience asked about classics. The reply came back that there was very little use in present day living for Latin. The answer shocked me. It would probably shock Dr. McGregor.

As I had previously understood the contention, you studied Latin so you could speak better English. Five years of it hasn't seemed to improve my English perceptibly. But it did teach me certain rules of grammar which now enable me to know when I'm murder-ing my own tongue. Without Latin my offence would not have been murder. would have been manslaughter.

I'm sure the adviser would have benefited from a short chat with Dr. McGregor. The doctor might even have convinced the adviser that a good grounding in classics makes a person a competent judge of home ec. and that chairs the PTA should press for at

TORONTO (CP) - World newsprint capacity is estimated to be 10 to 15 per cent above present world needs, D. W. Ambridge, president of Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., said would expect that more news-print capacity will be required before the end of the next

"Likewise the capacity for pulp making in the world is considerably in excess of what is required at present, but it is impossible to believe that the use of pulp in the thousands of products of which it now forms a part will suddenly cease to grow in view of the very great increase in population and im-

Canadians, however, must not take it for granted that the pulp and paper industry is and always will be prosperous and profitable.

"Unless," he added, "it is properly treated by governments, management and labor it will wither and shrink under the hot sun of intense competition."

Uranium Mines Face Bright Future—Winters

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's uranium' producers have a bright future, says Robert H. Winters, president of Rio Tinto Mining Company of Canada, Addressing the Montreal Institute of Investment

the former public works minister made these points:

1. Demand for uranium is increasing as it is put to wider peaceful use.

2. Uranium is becoming the popular choice of fuel for nuclear power sources.

3. Alternative sources — developed in fusion experiments in Britain and the United States —are 25 to 30 years ahead of practical application. 4. Canadian producers are in a favored position. Their uran-jum ore—while not as rich as others—is more easily mined.

This production is for sale on the Canadian market. Geared initially for a top speed of 2,000 feet per minute, it is potentially the fastest combination machine of its size in the western hemisphere.

The combination feature of the machine means increased diversification in the operation of the mill. Kraft paper will be produced for the Canadian market, and, when required, newsprint can be made to aug-ment production from the mill's No. 1 machine. The 284-inch No. 1 machine at Elk Falls last year estab-

Start-up of the No. 2 machine marks completion of the 2½-year, $29,000,000 expansion year, program at Elk Falls. In 1956, a kraft pulp mill was completed. 'Few Good Years Left'

Canadian Press Staff Write Cliff Walker is 51, the father of three, works in a Western Ontario beet plant loading trucks, wears glasses, weighs 145 pounds and is five feet, eight inches tall. Walker, who celebrates his 52nd birthday this Sunday, has just completed 32 straight probably no one in North America can touch. Hockey, he says, is a hobby with him.

There's no fooling in "hobby." He cuts out the beer and cigarets, takes his regu lar turn at his centre ice position for about 30 minute's every game and this season was the club's second highest scorer with 36 goals. He got 30 of them during the regular season and six in a five-game playoff with Shedden for the West Lorne Community League championship. Walker is pretty proud of his record, and he thinks he'll stretch it a few years, "I've got a few good years left," he says. "Well, maybe a cou-ple, I'll stick with it as long along without wheezing whenever I take my turn on the ice."

Walker, who hasn't a grey hair in his head, has had his share of injuries — nose broken a couple of times, dis-located shoulder, broken ribs and a couple of teeth knocked "Nothing really serious has happened to me in the way of injuries."

The fans give him a goodnatured ribbing about playing with fellows young enough to be his sons, but it doesn't bother him.

courtroom to hear the verdict, which is tantamount to ing the slim, shy girl of responsibility in the slaying.

However, the District-Attorney's Office said after the verdict that "at this time" it planned to go ahead with the juvenile hearing, the equivalent of a trial, in Santa Monica April 24.

The coroner's jury of 10 men and two women received the case at 11.45 a.m., but only after the courtroom was thrown into a turmoil when a swarthy, dark-haired man, later identified as Stephen Trusso, shouted from the audience a demand "to be heard."

"You seum have told a pack of lies here," he shouted. "I was a friend of Johnny's. Cheryl was in love with him. She was in love with him. She was jealous of her mother."

He then stormed from the courtroom, a horde of re-porters trailing as he left the building. LOS ANGELES (AP)-Lana Turner, almost collapsing at times, today told a coroner's inquest that Johnny Stompanato had tried to strangle her only sec-

BIG BEN DONE WRONG BY 'THE MERRY WIDOW'

LONDON (Reuters)-The "Merry Widow" upstaged Big Ben on its 100th birthday Thursday night.
Big Ben, famed clock atop the 320-foot tower beside the Houses of Parliament, marked its 100th year at 8 p.m. local time and was due to strike the hour for its first public broadcast in its second century just before the 9 o'clock news over the BBC.

But a live broadcast of the operetta "The Merry Widow" ran over its time by 3½ minutes and "there just wasn't time for Big Ben," explained the BBC.
